The Optimal Solution

Panorama windows and doors connect rooms to the outside world. They allow light into the house and enable you to see the world outside. They also provide protection from severe outside temperatures, wind, rain, and intruders

Panorama is one of the European leading names in high performance uPVC windows, doors and conservatory systems. Panorama windows are available in a range of styles and designs to suit every application, but all have stylish good looks and outstanding thermal, sound, safety, and weather performance.

Panorama window systems are the ideal solution to these varied roles, not only because of their attractive design but also because of their excellent internal properties. The well-insulating multi-chambered systems help minimize air conditioning costs and increase stability and security.

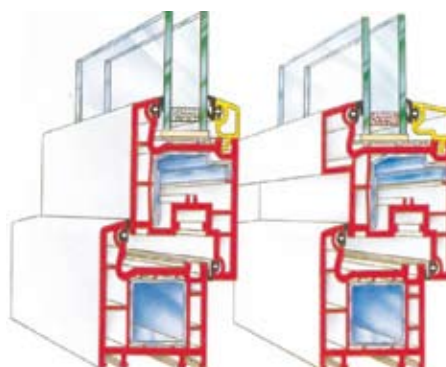

The optimum sound-insulation provides peace and quietness while maintenance-free, waterproof and age-resistant material guarantees a long-lasting attractive appearance. Metal reinforcements ensure a high degree of security.

Thermal Insulation

In each building, windows and doors play a decisive role for thermal insulation.

The heat transition coefficient (the so called U value) of the window is a crucial factor with regard to insulation. The high-quality sophisticated multi-chambered profiles with special insulating glass, result in energy savings of 55% compared to aluminium framed windows with single glazing and 28% compared to aluminium windows with double-glazing.

Sound Insulation

With Panorama windows and doors silence can reign in your house as they have excellent sound insulating properties and can be equipped with special glazing.

Security

Windows, front doors, balcony and terrace doors are vitally important when it comes to making your house secure. Even in the standard versions, Panorama windows and doors provide a high degree of security. They are made of rigid PVC of high impact strength and are strengthened by steel reinforcements both in the leaf and in the frame. This creates additional stability and makes it more difficult to break in. Furthermore, front doors are equipped with welded additional reinforcements at the edges.

Panorama products can also be equipped with special intruder resistant glass types and fittings.

Special multilayer panes prevent intruders from smashing the panes. They consist of two or more panes which are interconnected by highly tearproof and visoplastic foils. In the event of damage, the glass splinters will cling to the foil thus keeping the glazed opening closed.

The combination of different pane thickness and foil layers make it possible to tailor security properties to meet individual requirements, i.e. shatterproof, non-collapsing or slip-resistant.

The fittings move the windows and control different functions such as opening, closing or tilting. But they also contribute considerably to the protection against intruders. Locking points, mushroom-shaped pegs that cannot be pulled out and lockable window handles make it more difficult to prise the window open

Lifetime & Maintenance

Panorama windows and doors are made of high-quality PVC, which is a proven and particularly long-lasting material. This ensures excellent weatherproofing and age-resistance even under extreme climate conditions.

Therefore, Panorama windows and doors are easy to maintain and will keep their attractive appearance permanently, and they never need painting. Thanks to their smooth surface they can be cleaned easily by using a mild detergent and water.

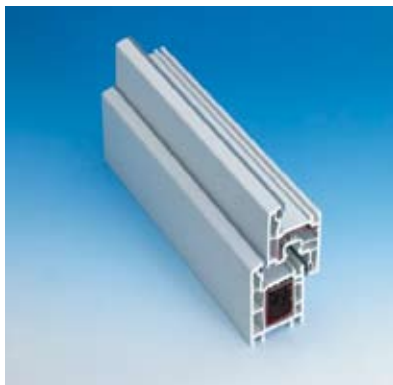

Product Guarantee

Panorama provides:

10 years warranty on all white PVC profiles and panels.

10 years warranty on all products against production defects caused by the Panorama.

Panorama understands the challenge of delivering stylish good looks with function and long-term performance. The Panorama range includes all styles of conventional PVC casement windows along with other elements of external joinery. Using Panorama systems enables developers to specify a fully integrated range of low maintenance building products. The Panorama range caters for almost any architectural design, reflecting traditional window and door styles. Balance and modernity, as well as an acknowledgment to historical details, provide original and elegant design solutions.

Windows and doors are normally custom made, which is often based on standard designs characteristic for the region
